Carlos III (Madrid, 1716-1788) was King of Naples for 25 years and King of Spain for 29 years. Historians consider him today, almost unanimously, the roundest and most praised Spanish monarch ever

- The best Mayor of Madrid: improved the city of Madrid (paving, lighting and cleaning of roads)
- Created the Museum of Natural Sciences, later the Prado Museum
- Created the Primary schools in Spain
- Promoted the Economic Societies of “Amigos del Pais”
- Promoted the colonization and exploitation of new lands for cultivation
- Decreed all professions honest (1783)

“By which it is declared that not only the Trade of Tanner, but also the other Arts and Crafts of Blacksmith, Tailor, Shoemaker, Carpenter, and others in this way, are honorable...”

Carlos III, King of Naples and Spain

Chronology of the history of modern Spain, in a nutshell

SONG OF THE RIDER

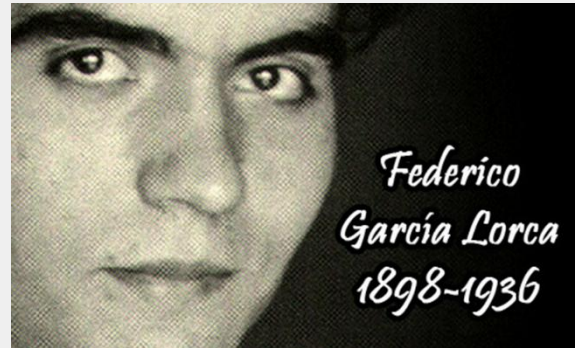

Córdoba.
Far away, and lonely.

Full moon, black pony,
olives against my saddle.
Though I know all the roadways
I'll never get to Córdoba.

Through the breezes, through the valley,
red moon, black pony.
Death is looking at me
from the towers of Córdoba.

Ay, how long the road is!
Ay, my brave pony!
Ay, death is waiting for me,
before I get to Córdoba.

Córdoba.
Far away, and lonely.

CANCIÓN DE JINETE

Córdoba.
Lejana y sola.

Jaca negra, luna grande,
y aceitunas en mi alforja.
Aunque sepa los caminos yo nunca llegaré a Córdoba.

Por el llano, por el viento,
jaca negra, luna roja.
La muerte me está mirando
desde las torres de Córdoba.

¡Ay qué camino tan largo!
¡Ay mi jaca valerosa!
¡Ay que la muerte me espera,
antes de llegar a Córdoba!

Córdoba.
Lejana y sola.
